

Additional Information

Before moving to a farm near Mt Lindesay in 2009, I ran a manufacturing and wholesale business in Perth for 15 years, while my husband operated an electrical contracting company. This gave me insight into the challenges faced by small businesses. As a Councillor and member of the South Coast Economic Alliance, I see strong potential for our region in emerging sectors like agriculture, renewable energy, aquaculture, education, and nature-based tourism. If re-elected, I will continue advocating for Denmark to be a leader in these areas.

Living rurally gave me a deep appreciation for the work of our farmers. I support policies that help agriculture remain profitable and resilient, including the shift to regenerative practices. I was a founding member of Riding for the Disabled Denmark (now HorsePower) and continue to volunteer, advocating for access and inclusion across our Shire.

I served on the Local Planning Strategy Working Group, helping shape future development. I support preserving Denmarks village character while enabling affordable housing, sustainable design, bike and pedestrian-friendly infrastructure.

As a keen bodyboarder, kayaker and walker, I'm committed to improving community spaces for all ages and abilities. While Council has decided our population must reach 10,000 before building a swimming pool, I believe this will happen sooner rather than later and will continue to advocate for an aquatic centre at McLean Park, provided it can be achieved without undue cost to ratepayers.

If re-elected, I will continue working on waste solutions, emissions reduction, road improvements, youth opportunities, and ecotourism. I listen to diverse views and make independent, transparent decisions. I hope to keep using my experience to help Denmark remain one of the best places to live and visit.
