I am active member of the community along with my wife and three young children. I am a Scotsdale cattle farmer and a small business owner with a broad background including being a former member of the Australian Defence Force.

I would like to be an advocate for the efficient, common-sense and transparent approach to the spending of public money. I am a big believer in making sure the basics are covered first and making sure what is in place is sustainable.

With my background I believe I have the ability to see the bigger picture and make informed decisions for the future. I believe strongly in building the resilience of our community and supporting those growing up within it as the priority.

I will always work to preserve what makes Denmark such a special place.
